Chapter 6 by intellikat

Now that the end is so near, I am feeling doubts and regrets. Have I wasted this story?

Chapter 7 by intellikat

I guess we will find out in the next chapter.

Chapter 8 by intellikat

I power down my laptop, watching the Story Wars homepage blink out and disappear. My mind turns its beacon of attention to the apartment I sit in and I am gradually aware of this world beyond the Internet. From the large glass double doors, I can see my laundry hanging on the balcony and the sounds of summer ascending like steam from the world below. I stand, ecce homo erectus... And decide that my addiction to this website must end. This is the day I will walk to Carol Struckers apartment, knock boldly, and ask her out to deep dish pizza and the new Ryan Gosling film.

But then, a heart attack strikes and I crash to the floor, dragging the tablecloth and contents with me. As I lay there, gasping for life and feeling my chest like a shattered block of ice, I manage to flip open the lid of the laptop and watch as Story Wars appears once again... Red and white with black letters like some Scandinavian modern art painting.

With my final moments of life, I tap out the beginning of a final story about Carol.

And then I fall back, awaiting death.
